

Kia ora e te whanau

Nau Te Rourou Naku te Rourou kia Ora ae te Iwi

Whakataka te hau ki te uru

Get ready for the westerly

Whakataka te hau ki te tonga and be prepared for the southerly.

Kia mākinakina ki uta

It will be icy cold inland,

Kia mātaratara ki tai and icy cold on the shore.

E hī ake ana te atākura

May the dawn rise red-tipped on ice,

He tio, he huka, he hauhū on snow, on frost.

Tihei mauri ora!

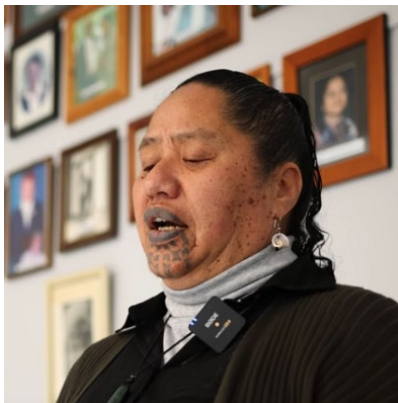

Tis the breath of life

In New Zealand we welcome manuhiri (guests) in the spirit of manaakitanga (respect, kindness, and hospitality). Hear our call. Feel welcome.

We also present our visitors with a wero (challenge). This wero is a challenge and commitment to care for New Zealand. This wero is the Tiaki promise.

We encourage all visitors to pick up this wero. To follow the Tiaki Promise. To act as a guardian, protecting and preserving our home.

Whakapapa and Pepeha

Kai Karanga

Mate Taitua

No Ngāi Tūhoe

Ngāti Haka and Patuheuheu

Maungapōhatu, Urewera

Ko Mātaatua te waka

Kai Wahine

Lucy Williams

No Waikato-Tainui

Ki Ngāruawāhia

Lucy is a student at the Queenstown Resort College

Kai Tane

Edvin Qvist-Weghagen

From Sweden

Village Skövde

Edvin works in snowboard sales at Coronet Peak and is here on a work visa for two years

The concept at the beginning of this video is to show our support and relationship to the Tiaki Promise.

We spoke to Dr Hiria Hape who gave us Whaea Mate's contact details. Whaea Mate was happy to use the Tiaki Karakia and encapsulate this into the Karanga. We also took her advice to break up the Karanga with the Whakatau mai ra at the end when the Aunty is welcoming Lucy home with a kai in the background to bring everyone back into Noa.

We have introduced Tāwhirimātea (weather) into the space visually as this element is often the reason for search and rescue operations.

Our thanks to Rob Hewitt for sharing this whakapapa with us.

The video 'Beautiful, wild, unpredictable: Be AdventureSmart in Aotearoa' was a collaboration between the New Zealand Search and Rescue Council, the Department of Conservation, and the Tiaki Governance Group.

Department of Conservation
Te Papa Atawhai

